Anasazi Act I. Continued; p/v score pg. 33-58
Full Score pg. 51-98

Delton Lorenzo Hudson

Allegro Ma Non Troppo $\boldsymbol{d}=110$

|  |  |  |  |  |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
| ． F ． |  |  |  |  |
| $\ldots \ldots+1 \times 1$ |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
| －1－14 |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
| 1 －每年 |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |

Kalani: (Pacing impatiently) I wonder where the Council members are?
Kaimi: Yes, where are they? What's holding them up?
Kalani: You mean your shamanic gifts aren't telling you where they are?
Kaimi: I don't need to call upon the spirits for every trivial thing that comes up, Kalani.

 of your people came from overseas--the original pure lineage.
 old histories tell about. And much mixture from the Western Motherland.
Kaimi: True, on this Turtle Island continent, people have been mixing for a long time indeed!
 Kaimi: But Mehe-Winyan, those beautiful islands of the West were a paradise once--a noble remnant of the wondrous Empire of the Sun.
Mehe-Winyan: Yes, I've heard it all before! The Motherland that sank beneath the Great Western Ocean's waves-- what a story! Leilani: It's not just a story. Right, Kaimi?

 possessed of great knowledge and power, and they still exist here.
Leilani: They are the Ancient Ones?
Kaimi: Yes, as I revealed to you before, Leilani, they wield the power of the Star-Nation people and the Motherland that sank so long ago.
Mehe-Winyan: maybe! I think a lot of that is hogwash!
 great buidings, who flew through the air in their shining ships, who lived in great cities of marble and granite-- lit at night by the ever-burning lamps that used no fuel--before they retired into secrecy.
Mehe-Winyan: So! Even in bygone times those places were just a lot of old ruins with nothing but scorpions and ghosts living in them! My ancestors knew that.
Kaimi: Not exactly, honored Mother. The legend goes that there have always been a few secluded ones who have secretly kept our Mother Earth from being destroyed by the folly of the peoples of their time. Leilani: But you told me they are forbidden by the Star-nations to have any contact with our people?
 and even the Earth Herself.
 be, Kaimi. No one else would go, so I had to go!
 for our people.
Kalani: Did the Kachina say that we of the Eagles should go to them? Why don't the kachinas just help us?
Kaimi: Kalani! how can you say that? They've helped us since long ago when they were contacted by our Kahunas And look how they saved Leilani from danger in the wilds, and brought her home to us!
Mehe-Winyan: That's true, but if my ancestors hadn't helped your Kahunas, you'd still be floundering around on that beach you landed on!
 Sacred White Buffalo constellation.
 And believe me, it's no picnic!
(A gaurd enters, raises his right hand to Kalani in salutation, kneels.)
Gaurd: Kalani, Alii Nuii, of the High Mana-Mana, you who rules the-- Kalani: (interrupting) Yes, yes, skip all that! What is it? Rise!
Gaurd: The High Council is here.
Kalani: It's about time! Command them to come inl robes denoting their station.) u landed on!
 Sacred White Buffalo constellation.
Mehe-Winyan: As named kby the Originals here! Leilani: You know so much kaimi--star lore, the legends, the medicines, everything!
Kaimi: I'm the Shaman--it's my job! Knowing such things and helping my people. And believe me, it's no picnic!
(A gaurd enters, raises his right hand to Kalani in salutation, kneels.)
Gaurd: Kalani, Alii Nuii, of the High Mana-Mana, you who rules the-- Kalani: (interrupting) Yes, yes, skip all that! What is it? Rise! Gaurd: The High Council is here.
Kalani: It's about time! Command them to come inl Gaurd: Yes, High One..

Kalani: You shall have my commands soon enough! When I am ready. Hasty decisions are usually not the best.
( Gaurd enters.)
Gaurd: High Chief Kalani, Kekipi is here! Kalani: At last! And he wants to marry my daughter and be the future Chief! Here he is late! ( Gaurd exits as Kekipi with exaggerated gallantry, enters.)

$$
\text { Allegro d = } \mathbf{8 0}
$$

Kekipi: But Kalani, I'm late only Because I'm coming from the fighting at our tribal borders--the Warchief is doing it all wrong!, and I told him so!
Kalani: He is wise in war--you are young, headstrong! Youth and courage, yes--I admire in you, but if you want to be the High Chief someday, you must consider strategies in your head also! You must be like the crafty fox! Foolish bravado will not do!
Kekipi: But Kalani, I do know strategy. I LOVE strategy!
Kalani: No you don't--we hold you in esteem Kekipi, for your enthusiasm, but you are not ready to lead my warriors. The High Council agrees with me, ( turning to the Council Leader) don't you?
Council Leader: Yes, Kalani, we feel he is too--hmm--shall we say--impetuous--to be trusted to lead men in a war party for you at this time.
Kekipi: But Kalani, you promised--since I was a teen-aged youth!
Kalani: My promise will remain good based only on your future actions. You must prove yourself worthy Kekipi: ( Exasperated ) But how can I prove anything if you won't let me do anything or lead anybody against our enemies?
Kalani: Patience, Kekipi! Time and patience. I chose you because you have ambition and gifts, and powerful medicine, as the shaman saw in your stars, and as Leilani believes. But time and patience conquer all.
Council leader: (Hesistantly ) Hmmm- uh, if I may say so, Kalani, he does have somewhat of a point. Our situation is deteriorating. The people are desparate. The Eagles are gravely wounded maybe we $D O$ need a hot young warchief to lead after all!
Kalani: ( Angrily ) I can't believe you said that! Verging on treason!

